All Printing Resources, Inc.

Break Free of the Inventory Cycle

Inventory can feel like an endless loop of time-consuming manual tasks: counting units, placing orders, tracking shipments, repeat. Your time could be better spent growing the business or meeting tight project turnarounds.

Imagine a world where the stockroom was always maintained. Never needing to count supplies or place orders again. There's no worrying where the next shipment is, or if there will be rush fees to get essential products before you run out completely.

That's where APR's SupplySentry can help. Using predictive analytics and RFID-enabled technology, our customizable systems can take the entire inventory cycle off your hands.

Predictive Analytics Looks at Past Usage and Order Patterns

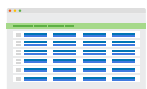

By forecasting correct stock levels, we can anticipate inventory needs, reduce unnecessary inventory, and help you operate more efficiently. Predictive analytics adds to your peace of mind by evaluating demand and improving planning. It can also dynamically reset min/max/reorder points to assist us in managing the supply chain and optimize the amount of inventory kept on the floor, as well as reduce freight costs.
